

Paladar

1649 Wilcox Avenue

Consider it the hotel-sized version of the ubiquitous mojito: The Paladar is further proof that everything Cuban is cool, at least for the next 20 minutes. The mojitos are indeed free flowing, the pork chops are moist, and the people are (mostly) beautiful.

139 South La Brea

Interior designer Laser Rosenberg recently moved his popular furnishings and design boutique to the heart of La Brea's design row. This new location houses a small but well chosen set of objects and unique furniture, like hand-blown glass from Michael Anchin, plus select monographs and works by local painters and sculptors.
